A BASIC VITAMIN RULE

THE basic rule in nutrition is that all of the factors in a vitamin group, and all of the vitamins are necessary to do the complete vitamin job.

Vitamin uncertainty can be simplified. Vegex for the B vitamin complex, cod liver oil for A and D and orange juice for C, dependably furnish all of the known vitamins. Vegex supplies the extrinsic factor and a substantial amount of available iron.

A CURRENT FEEDING TEST WITH VEGEX

In addition to the Sherman-Chase B₁ and International B₁, and the Sherman-Bourquin B₂(G) and B complex control tests, others further show the B complex and other values of Vegex.

Animals were depleted from February 25th to March 26th on a vitamin B complex free diet; 40 gamma B₁ crystals per day given to May 18th. Photograph I shows typical result, and photograph II typical result on feet. The B₁ crystals were eliminated and 500 milligrams of Vegex given per day to June 4th. Photograph III shows the result in the same animals shown in photograph I. The dermatitis had been completely eliminated.

Vegex is an autolyzed extract from genuine brewery yeast. Meat-like flavor but meat free, it is used like a meat extract in solution or added to soups or other foods for the child's or patient's tray.

POMEROY

FRAME TRUSS

Expertly Made Expertly Fitted

The superiority of the Pomeroy Frame Truss lies in the application of gentle but firm "resistance" rather than "pressure" in retaining the hernia. Adjustments to insure close body contact in all positions and regardless of body movement are made with perfect accuracy. The water pad, first used by Pomeroy, and the long experience of this house in gauging the metal for frames, designing and shaping pads and fitting trusses to individual needs, insure your patients satisfaction.

In prescribing trusses protect your patient all the way—prescribe the type of truss required, prescribe the truss you know will perform its duty, prescribe where to buy it—prescribe Pomeroy.
